

Hi Steve!

Here are (3) tickets to the Texans game on Sunday 12/14 vs. The Tennessee Titans. Rob mentioned that you, your wife & Vitti (not sure how she spells it) were going to attend, but not sure who you have lined up. So, I am sending you the tickets and a parking pass and you may invite whomever you would like. That is what Rob gets for leaving me in charge while he goes hunting. ☺

On a more serious note, I wanted to say thank you so much for everything you have done to help clear my brother's name. I know that at times it seemed like we were not on the ball or even lax in our attitude (which I promise we never were), but like you and your partners, we wanted to make sure we were presenting a complete picture of our side of the story and sometimes that took longer than we expected when gathering information for you. I apologize for sometimes operating on "blurred" time. ☺ Words can't express mine and my family's gratitude towards you and the firm during this difficult time in our lives. The firms' approach to this legal matter was exceptional and although I hope never to have to call upon you again, I will keep your card tucked safely away in my wallet for future reference.

May you and all the partners at the firm have a wonderful and merry holiday!

Sincerely,
